

ABSTRACT

The government policy is most important for society, especially in protection street children which is the responsibility of the government and communities. Currently, in the several districts, the number of street children has increased, so the government and other officials make a program that can reduce the number of street children who are still hanging around. Based on this problem, the writer wants to find out the role of the district government in street children's protection toward the fulfillment and standard of the education's right. This research used a normative method with an approach through the legislation. The result of this research is the role of district government to protect street children already according with the law in number 35 of 2014 concerning child protection. The government and other officials program to deal with the number of street children have not been fully successful, because there are still some street children who are still hanging around. In relation to standard of protection and fulfillment about education's right for street children, the three regencies which for example are appropriate with the existing standards. This research is useful for all law enforcement officials, parents, and communities to pay more attention to rights that must be owned by children and children's development in welfare.
